How We Use Personal Data

JLPS uses your personal data to:

- Process and deliver a product or service you have ordered.
 - In some cases, this will require JLPS to share your data with a third-party provider. In these cases, a contractual arrangement is in place to ensure the protection of the data and the minimal transfer of data necessary to complete the task that is shared. For example, accepted manuscripts – which include author contact information – are shared with our publishing vendors to prepare the article for publication.
 - In other cases, JLPS contracts with a partner to provide a product or service and data is shared with or received from the partner. For example, a co-sponsor of a meeting, a peer society that processes joint memberships, or a sister society that provides a member benefit.
- Provide information to you about other relevant JLPS programs and services based on your interests.
- Include your information in our online directory.
- Improve your online experience. For example, we keep you logged in to our network as you read online journal content.
- Share conference registration lists with attendees and sponsors.
- Monitor JLPS content and services to prevent potentially abusive activities.
- Share mailing addresses with JLPS members.

- Respond to a competent law enforcement body, regulatory, government agency, court or other third party where we believe disclosure is legally required; to exercise, establish or defend our legal rights; or to protect your vital interests or those of any person.

In connection with any proposed purchase, merger or acquisition of any part of our business, your data may be sold or transferred as part of that transaction with the stipulation that the conditions of this privacy policy transfer with the data. Personal information data related to the LPM/LAMP/SLPC symposium will be erased within three years after the event.

Your Data Rights

You may access the majority of the information that JLPS maintains on you in our database in the My Account (JLPS Membership login ID and Password) feature of our system; e.g. Manuscript search at Cybozu Dedie (サイボウズ デヂエ) for JLPS members. Author and reviewing information is contained in electric files of JLPS publishing proceedings of LPM/LAMP/SLPC symposium/congress, Proceedings of Laser Materials Processing Conference (講演会論文集), Journal of Japan Laser Processing Society (学会誌), our open-access online journal "Journal of Laser Micro/Nanoengineering (JLMN)". Questions or concerns about your data may be sent to jlps@jlps.gr.jp

Cookies and Other Tracking Technologies

To enhance the performance and functionality of our sites, we use session, persistent and third-party "cookies" that store a small text file on your computer and collect certain information about your visit to our site.

Log Files

Web site log files store information such as internet protocol (IP) addresses, browser type, internet service provider (ISP), referring/exit pages, platform type, date/time stamp, and number of clicks. Normally, an IP address will change each time you connect to the internet; in some cases, however, you may have a static address, and your IP address may be deemed identifiable. Log files are used to analyze trends, administer the site, track users' movements within the site and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use. The log files are used by utility tracking software to analyze user movement.

Transfer of Information to Other Countries

JLPS is a global organization headquartered in Japan but with activities, members, customers, vendors and consultants around the world. In the course of normal business, JLPS may transfer information to other countries as necessary for us to provide our products and services. By submitting your information to JLPS (electronically or in hard copy), you consent to such transfers and to the processing of this information in other countries.

Modifications to this Notice

JLPS may modify, add or remove portions of this Privacy Notice at any time. Where such changes are material in nature, JLPS will provide additional notice via email or notification on the Websites. The date of the last update is displayed at the top of this Privacy Notice.
